When we partner with local agencies, we ensure that proposed projects not only follow through with selection criteria and guidelines, but are competitive enough to be funded. Every application is a collaboration between KOA's planners and professional engineers alongside agency staff. With our experience, we utilize interagency contacts, rely on in-house demographic and geospatial data repositories, and create outreach approaches to effectively lead the development of successful grant applications.

KOA also partners with agencies through on-call contracts to better strategize on grant management and comprehensive funding opportunities. This has included everything from training staff on the process of applying for available funding, assisting in the application for funds itself, presenting options to align funding with future project phases, and managing grant reporting processes.
